Linking of cross country ski trails proposed

Provincial government asked to assist ambitious scheme to boost local tourist industry

The Ontario government will be asked to help fund a linked cross country ski trail system that could provide a major boost to winter tourism in Haliburton County. The system would join existing and planned trail developments in several townships, providing an opportunity for lodge to lodge skiing. As well, the proposed project may be expanded to include the creation of a 25 kilometre competitive course of world class standards which would provide an Olympic training facility and the possibility of attracting World Cup events to the county.

The ambitious proposal has been taking shape over the past few months, spearheaded by the Haliburton Highlands Nordic Trail Association, in co operation with the local ski council.

Artis Eastmure, owner of Maple Sands Resort in Stanhope Township and spokesman for the Nordic Trail Association, said officials of the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation have been aware of the proposal for some time, and interest in the project has been growing. Eastmure, along with Art Ward of Wig-A-Mog Inn and Mike Exall of the Ontario Ski Council, were scheduled to meet with government officials on Tuesday, after which they expect to know if there is a possibility of government assistance for the work.

The proposal calls for the creation of up to 75 kilometres of track set, groomed trails to link trails already cut in the Lake Kashagawigamog area, Camp Wanakita, Lochlin, Stanhope and Minden Townships.

Haliburton County is ideally suited to a major cross country ski development, according to the Nordic Trail Association.

"The picturesque nature of such terrain coupled with the varied and sometimes difficult nature of the trail can provide the cross country skier at the recreation level and the competitive level with a uniqueness not found in existing developed areas of the province", according to the proposal document. Other advantages Haliburton can offer are the availability of land, and "strong local and regional support" for the concept of improved cross country ski facilities.

The development proposed by the Nordic Trail Association would "enhance tourism" in the county, and create a number of short term and long term employment opportunities, according to Eastmure.

Total estimated cost of the project is $263,000. The estimate includes $60,000 for program management and trail design fees, $110,000 for machinery and trail grooming equipment (some of the machine work could be donated by the municipalities involved), $40,000 for labour, $15,000 for trail signage, $5000 for office rental (with donated space a possibility), $3000 for vehicle leasing, $25,000 for planning promotions and communications, and $5000 for miscellaneous expenses.

The cost is relatively modest in comparison to the significance of the project to the tourist industry, Eastmure noted. If provincial officials approve the concept and are willing to support it financially, cost sharing arrangements are expected to be worked out between the province, local governments and the private sector.

Work on the project could start as early as June, while September is the latest work could start if trails are to be ready for next winter, Eastmure noted.

More information on how Ministry of Tourism and Recreation officials reacted to the proposal when it was presented Tuesday, should be available next week.

Penny parking gone as Dysart ups meter rates

The days of parking for a penny are about to come to an end in Haliburton. In recent years Haliburton has been one of the last places in Ontario where you could still put a penny in a parking meter and make its clock move. But within the next few weeks, meters will be altered so that pennies will be rejected. It will cost 10 cents for 30 minutes on the meter, and 20 cents for an hour. The meters also will accept a quarter for one hour of parking as a convenience to shoppers who may not have dimes to use in the machines.

Along with the higher prices, the municipality will crack down on parking offences, in a bid to make short term parking space available to people who come to town to shop and carry out other business.

Reeve Murray Fearrey said local merchants who attended a recent meeting to discuss plans for Station Street improvements, were concerned about the main street parking problem. Fearrey said many of the available spaces on the main street are being taken up all day long by store operators and their employees. Increasing the meter charges and enforcing regulations should encourage persistent offenders to park off the main street.

Municipal law enforcement officer Bob English "is going to enforce the by-law regularly and try to get the offenders to do a little bit of walking" the reeve told council on Monday.

4500 flowers were distributed courtesy of local businesses, to mark the fund raising drive of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Watch plan is working

Minden residents report 'suspicious' characters

By PC GARY CHAPMAN

The Neighbourhood Watch program in Haliburton and Minden villages is progressing as planned. Mark Schell, chairman of the Haliburton program, and Gord Monk, the Minden chairman, are both confident the appropriate signs will be in place throughout the villages before the arrival of the summer visitors. All homes should be provided with the Neighbourhood Watch stickers by then as well.

Each community has been divided into zones with a leader in each. These Zone Leaders have subdivided their zones into smaller areas with a Block Captain in each. All participants are working together to complete a master map of each village. Each residence and business premises will be identified with a number. A copy of these maps will be posted at the Minden OPP

Detachment and any resident requiring police assistance will be able to provide their precise location, for example, "I'm Neighbourhood Watch Zone 3, Number 17." This will enable an officer to know exactly which residence to respond to. Other emergency services will be provided with maps as well.

One indication the program is working was provided by the Minden Division of the Ministry of Natural Resources. They recently conducted a training exercise in Minden Village whereby Conservation Officers took up night time surveillance in an effort to gain evidence on a make-believe poacher. The officers were reported to the OPP detachment four times by suspicious residents. In past years, no one has ever reported anyone taking part in these MNR training exercises.

Renovations planned for Dysart arena

Recreation committee plans substantial changes to create bigger lobby

Players and fans will find an improved Dysart et al community centre when the hockey and skating season resumes next fall. The community's recreation committee has drafted plans for interior changes that will provide more dressing room space for players, better washrooms, and a larger lobby area. As well, the roof of the structure will be repaired.

Committee chairman Brian Black said the alterations will take into account suggestions from players and fans. Included in a proposal brought to council on Monday are plans to remove and relocate the existing men's washroom so that access to it will be gained from the lobby. The two dressing rooms on the north side of the building off the entrance hall will be enlarged by removing toilets and showers and building a combined washroom facility to serve both rooms. Players will have access to the ice without going through the lobby, Black said.

The room used by the Haliburton Huskies on the west side of the building will be removed, as will the ladies' washroom, to create a larger lobby. A new ladies' washroom will be constructed and will have access from the lobby.

The dressing room under the stands will become a hallway to provide access to two new dressing rooms that will be built projecting out from the building into the space between the arena and the curling club. Part of the old dressing room will be converted into a referees room, with a shower and toilet.

Other changes planned include the installation of new flooring in the enlarged lobby, and new flooring for the dressing rooms. Since all dressing rooms will provide direct access to the ice surface, skates will be banned from the lobby once the renovations are completed, Black said.

The committee also wants to remove the existing oil furnace and install electric heaters for the lobby and dressing room areas. These would enable heat to be more carefully controlled, and should result in energy savings in the long term, the recreation committee chairman noted.

While exact costs will not be known until tenders have been received, Black said the committee hopes the work can be done within the $62,000 available for it.

Funds for the work will come from the Ontario Neighbourhood Improvement program currently in place in the municipality. Under this agreement, council and the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing share the costs of approved projects equally. Dysart is entering the second year of a three year ONIP agreement.

Council agreed that tenders should be sought.

Police news

General Occurrences

During the period April 2 - 8, personnel at Minden Detachment investigated the following occurrences: four motor vehicle accidents (no injuries), and 25 general occurrences, including four domestics, three thefts, and two break-ins.

Youths Arrested

A chain of events which occurred across Stanhope and Guilford early Saturday morning has resulted in two youths being charged with a number of offences.

On North Shore Rd. at 1:00 a.m. a 1979 Pontiac and $110 in cash were stolen from a residence. The vehicle crashed and was demolished on nearby Airport Rd. a short time later. Near this location a resident scared off would-be thieves attempting to steal his pick-up truck.

A 1969 Oldsmobile was then stolen from a residence on Green Lake Rd. a short distance away. This vehicle was observed by police on Norley Rd. a short time later and the two occupants were arrested.

Charged with theft of the vehicles and the money are Timothy Bounsall, age 19, of Haliburton, and Jamie Austin, age 16, also from Haliburton.

Accident

On Saturday, April 7 at 2:00 a.m. on Dover Spring Rd. in Dysart Township Peter Austin, age 20, of Dysart Twp. skidded off the roadway, through some guide posts and into a ditch. His 1972 Chrysler received $350 damage. He was charged with failing to report the accident and with careless driving.

Truck Stolen

Sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning a 1976 Ford pick-up truck, two tone green, was stolen from a parking lot in Minden. There is some speculation the truck may be abandoned somewhere in the area. Anyone knowing of a vehicle matching this description is asked to call Minden OPP.

Monmouth council

Monmouth Township council held a regular meeting on Monday, April 2, and considered the following matters:

Keith Tallman declared a pecuniary interest in the General Accounts, re electric General Accounts, re electrical and refrained from discussion and voting. With Jim Deterling in the chair it was resolved that the following bills and accounts be paid: General Voucher, $92, $860.64; Roads Voucher, $8, 963.76; and Welfare Payroll, $1,536.28.

Severance re part lot 2, concession 11, Betty and Walter Murczek, was approved.

Permission was granted for the clerk to attend Zone 5 Seminar and the tax collectors seminar with all costs paid.

Council supported the resolution of Anson, Hindon and Minden re: an Historical Society for Haliburton County.

College tuition fees go up

Increases in the tuition fees for full-time students at Ontario's 22 Colleges of Applied Arts and Technology will be limited to five percent in 1984-85.

Colleges and Universities Minister Dr. Bette Stephenson, announced that the standard tuition fee for the coming year would be $545, an increase of $25 over the current level.

The five percent limit applies to increases in tuition fees paid by both Canadian and foreign students.

Sherborne et al council minutes

At a meeting March 12, Sherborne, Livingstone, McClintock, Lawrence and Nightingale Townships council considered the following matters:

Council approved the minutes of the regular meeting held on February 13, 1984, including minutes of Special Meeting held on February 15 and 20 as circulated.

Delbert Page, Road Superintendent, reported to council. Page reviewed with members the needs of the Roads Department as to equipment replacement and or road construction over the next few years. Reserve accounts were referred to and what must be set aside in the 1984 budget to allow for the acquisition or work to be carried out in future.

Page was directed by council to submit a supplemental request for monies from Ministry of Transportation and Communications to share in the purchase of rubber tire four wheel drive loader and phase one of road re-alignment in the area of 'The Pig's Ear' on Fletcher Lake Road.

Council authorized the Reeve and Clerk to sign necessary forms to authorize the Ministry of Transportation and Communications to make direct deposit payments to the Bank of Nova Scotia, Huntsville Branch - 27 Main Street, East, Huntsville, Ontario (POA 1K0) as indicated for the purpose of payments made to the municipality under the Public Transportation and Highway Improvement Act.

Page also enlightened council on the decrease in subsidy dollars from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications for the year 1984. A loss in $1700 subsidy dollars from 1983 will result in a decrease in overall expenditures for 1984 in the amount of $3400.

Council for the Corporation of the Township of Sherborne, McClintock, Livingstone, Lawrence and Nightingale strongly objected to the decrease in subsidy monies from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications for 1984 Road Expenditures.

Page updated council on preliminary considerations in re-locating the stock pile of sand and salt to another area. To date no land has been acquired; but that in future various lots would be investigated.

John Eakins, M.P.P. for Victoria-Haliburton was a guest at council at which time he spoke with members on many subjects and answered questions.

Dave McDonald, Chief Building Official/Municipal Law Enforcement Officer reported to council.

Council having been in receipt of Training Course Outline at the Ontario Police College in Aylmer, Ontario sponsored by Municipal Law Enforcement Officers Association (Ontario) agreed to send McDonald to said college in the fall of 1984.

McDonald then reviewed with members of council the information he had received from Port-A-Room Manufacturing Ltd. in respect to a 12' x 32' structure which could be tied in with the main office building of the Municipal Administrative area giving a larger floor area.

New signs planned

It should be easier for visitors to find their way around Haliburton village in the near future, because Dysart et al council has decided to order new street signs for the community.

The signs will be eight inches high and 24 inches long, in natural wood colour with reflective lettering. A sign painter in the Harcourt area has been awarded the contract to produce them.

To reduce the threat of vandalism or theft of the signs, council will install them using strong metal brackets. They are expected to be in place before the summer.

Aircraft painted

The CF 100 aircraft at the entrance to Haliburton village will get a facelift in the next few weeks under a co operative arrangement between the Haliburton Legion Branch 129 and Dysart et al council.

The aircraft will be painted and the concrete pedestal on which it stands repaired at an estimated total cost of $600.

Local painter Peter Carroll will do the work, with the cost to be split evenly between the municipality and the Legion.

Dysart supports

Dysart et al council has added its support to the effort to form a county wide Historical Society. At a meeting Monday, council passed a resolution noting that it approves the concept.

A preliminary meeting on the matter was held two weeks ago at Wig-A-Mog Inn, under the chairmanship of Stanhope reeve Harry Davis. A second meeting is expected to be held in the near future.

If the society is formed, one of its main projects is expected to be the Kanawa Canoe Museum, which may be relocated from its present site adjacent to Camp Kandalore in Stanhope Township, to a more suitable and accessible spot.

MTC yard paved

Ontario Transportation and Communications Minister James Snow said recently that tenders have been called for grading, drainage, granular base, hot mix paving and building at Tory Hill Patrol Yard on Highway 121 at Highway 503.

Tenders will be opened for this project at ministry headquarters in Downsview May 9.

Funding for the work could come from the province under the Ontario Neighbourhood Improvement program. Dysart has completed a number of other projects in the community with the aid of this funding source.

Councillor Glen Hodgson expressed concern that a drainage problem could surface when the embankment is excavated. He noted that a tile system might have to be installed at some points to carry away ground water, and he suggested that council's funding application should anticipate the costs that would be incurred if water problems are encountered.

Approval of the project could take several months, and the work would probably be scheduled for the spring of 1985.

Penny parking to disappear

Fearrey said changing meters to accept dimes and quarters should offset the higher cost of regular enforcement, and the estimated $4000 cost of converting the meters.

As well, he said, meters broken off or damaged during the winter will be replaced.

Parking meter violations have not usually resulted in tickets during the winter, but this will change, Fearrey said. Next winter, people will be expected to put money in meters for parking as long as the meters are accessible.

Dysart approves seminar

OPP may send officer to discuss pornography

Dysart et al council would not object to the Ontario Provincial Police putting on a seminar to make local people aware of the problem of pornography in society. Council took that position Monday, after considering a letter from the force commissioner.

According to the letter, the OPP have trained a number of officers to deal with the problem, and have prepared a graphic videotape containing scenes from pornographic films, as well as examples of more subtle pornography in advertisements. One officer is stationed in Peterborough, and would be available to put on a seminar in the Haliburton area, council was told.

"If it serves a useful purpose, I don't see what's wrong with it," reeve Murray Fearrey commented. But he noted that "it could be offensive to a lot of people too."

"What they're saying is that it's happening and we don't even realize it," Fearrey noted.

Council was unsure of who would sponsor a seminar, but decided to write to the OPP commissioner saying that if the force feels it would be worthwhile to hold a meeting in the Haliburton area, council would co operate.

Bilingualism not a matter for local input, council decides Dysart et al council has decided it doesn't want to get involved in the issue of bilingualism for Ontario.

The matter was brought to the table in the form of a resolution from the city of Vanier, near Ottawa. Representatives of that city asked municipal councils across Ontario to petition the Ontario government to proclaim the province officially bilingual.

But Dysart et al councillors were hesitant to take the matter any further. Councillor Glen Hodgson said Vanier representatives "are asking us to enter into the jurisdiction of a senior level of government, and to reflect upon it. I'm not sure we should be doing that sort of thing."

Hodgson said individual citizens could take up the cause, but that it was not a matter for municipal councils to deal with.

Council agreed, and will take no action on the Vanier petition.

Eakins opposes Hydro

Victoria/Haliburton M.P.P. John Eakins expressed strong opposition in the Legislature last Monday to a proposal by Ontario Hydro to relocate their operations from Orillia and Huntsville to Bracebridge.

Eakins said that while the closings would take place in ridings represented by government members, this move would cause inconvenience and hardship to those in the Dalton and Carden areas of Victoria County and in the Sherborne, McClintock and Livingstone areas of Haliburton County.

Eakins, who is chairman of his party's Rural Task Force, told the Minister of Energy that this move was just another way to disregard and downplay the importance or rural Ontario. Rural people need and deserve these services without the agony of having to travel many more miles than necessary to receive what their urban cousins take for granted, Eakins said.

While the Minister of Energy said the plan was initiated to "save bucks", Eakins told him to save them at Darlington and not on the backs of the rural people.

Old highway 519 to get new names

The road to Eagle Lake formerly designated as Highway 519 and soon to be known as Haliburton County Road 14, will be designated officially with its commonly used name, the Eagle Lake Road.

Dysart et al council decided on the name Monday, in response to a letter from the county roads department, which said council could name the road officially, if it wished.

Since the road continues from Eagle Lake to the Fort Irwin area of Haliburton Lake, council decided that the portion from the hamlet of Eagle Lake to Fort Irwin should be designated as the Haliburton Lake Road.

These names should make it easier for people new to the area to find their way to the two places, council decided.

Horticulture grant okayed

Dysart pleased with flower planting efforts

Haliburton's Horticultural Society will get a $500 grant from Dysart et al council to continue flower planting and beautification of Head Lake Park and the Rotary beach area.

Council approved the grant on Monday.

Councillor Glen Hodgson commented that the organization deserves praise for the work it has carried out in the community recently. He said there is "quite a dramatic change" in Head Lake Park since the society began concentrating its efforts on the facility.

Councillor Dorothy Baker, who is a member of the horticultural group, said the only problem the organization is encountering is a "manpower" shortage, and she noted that new members are always welcome.

It was Daffodil Day in Haliburton on Friday, and more than 4500 of the flowers were flown in from Holland and distributed to local volunteers through Nancy's Flowers. Getting ready to distribute the flowers, which

No more pennies

If waves of nostalgia wash over you every time you see a horse and buggy, or gaze at a mothballed steam engine, or hear the music of a fiddle, you might be inclined to lament the end of one cent parking in Haliburton. Indeed Dysart's meters might have been just about the last place in the country where a penny would actually buy something, even if it was only minutes on a mechanical clock. But if you've ever tried to find a parking space on the main street in the middle of a busy day, you won't feel sorry that inflation has finally reached down to village parking meters. Council hopes that by increasing the cost to 10 cents for half an hour 20 cents for an hour, or a quarter if you haven't got two dimes, people will be less tempted to find a space in the morning and keep it all day. As well, the extra revenue from the meters should help cover the cost of tougher enforcement, which is badly needed.

One of the biggest problems, aside from a limited number of spaces on the street, has been merchants and their employees who continue to park in front of their stores, instead of leaving their cars and trucks on back streets and walking a block or two. The fact that business might be lost if potential customers can't find a place to park seems to have been ignored by many merchants. Dysart council hopes the new meter rates will go a long way toward alleviating the problem. If higher charges make more people considerate of the parking shortage, council's decision will prove to have been a good one.

Now if we could only find something to do with our pennies.

A good plan

Haliburton's Nordic Trail Association has announced an ambitious plan to link cross country ski trails in many parts of the county, a plan which, if carried out, would make Haliburton one of the premier cross country skiing areas in Canada. As well as opening up the possibility of lodge to lodge skiing vacations, the scheme proposed by the association envisions a world class competitive track suitable for training and for staging World Cup nordic events.

While these plans are tentative, and depend on provincial government support, they are not unrealistic. Costs as outlined in the association's brief to provincial officials are decidedly modest. Much of the infrastructure on which the trail scheme would be based is already in place. Enthusiasm among local skiers, resort owners and politicians is high. All that stands between the idea and the reality, is the shadow of doubt about commitment from the province.

It is an exciting proposal based on months of hard work by the Nordic Trail Association and many others. It is a proposal that deserves the support of every local citizen, whether or not they appreciate the challenge and the tranquility cross country skiing affords.

It's working

There was good news from the Ontario Provincial Police this week about the Neighbourhood Watch program which is just getting underway in Minden and Haliburton. According to local police, the program is working well. Last week the Minden detachment received four calls about suspicious activities. As it turned out, the activities were part of a mock exercise by Conservation Officers from the Minden MNR office, but the important point is that no one has ever been suspicious about the exercises in the past, or if they have, they haven't bothered to telephone police.

The Minden experience proves that Neighbourhood Watch is a valuable program in local communities.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

The School Board's review of the new direct access limitation policy in their March 27 meeting only reinforces my concern that individuals or delegations should not be represented at Board meetings by committees. In a lengthy conversation with the Board Chairman in February I detailed my concern over this new policy with examples of past committee presentations that can only be described as biased to support a position the Board had already taken. Not only does it appear that these arguments were not presented in my absence but the Chairman conveniently changed her meaning of the awkwardness the Board felt in dealing with delegations, from the emotional aspects of some presentations as we discussed, to merely mean overcrowding of the meeting room. I would point out that this policy applies to individuals as well as small delegations too so why the concern about overcrowding?

The Board's apparent desire for less "formal" presentations at the committee level is, to say the least, a vague excuse for imposing such a restrictive policy. This publicly elected body must be accountable and directly accessible to parents and ratepayers.

The statement that this new policy will "speed up the process" is not necessarily accurate. Committees do not have established meeting times and so must be scheduled around availability of all parties concerned. This scheduling problem may lead to further delays for delegations being cleared for inclusion on the agenda of the next Board meeting. Also, unless the Board is in the habit of rubber stamping committee proposals, I cannot see how the process is necessarily speeded up.

Ironically, although the Board discussed this policy in the March 27 meeting, at that same meeting they apparently chose to ignore it by allowing a direct presentation by a group home operator. This suggests that the Board will selectively invoke this policy when it is convenient and to their benefit.

April showers are here at last, and the bloom of spring suddenly seems possible, no longer a winter fairy tale. A neighbour already has transplanted a few early vegetables to his garden.

There's another dimension to the blossoming of spring than normally meets the eye in crocuses and daffodils. As the snow and ice retreat, there's suddenly water everywhere. And, while it's not so easily detected, the aquatic environment of temperate-zone ponds and lakes also exhibits the pulse of spring. In fact, limnologists often refer to the phenomenon as a "spring flowering".

Now unless you have a microscope handy you're apt to miss a lot of the excitement. For this "flowering" typically involves diatoms (an order of microscopic algae) and a host of other normally invisible flora and fauna. During the long winter's night, low water temperatures and reduced light slow things down a bit, especially the rate of photosynthesis, while regenerated nutrients pile up unused. With the advent of more favourable temperature and light conditions, algae, and other minute floating plants collectively called phytoplankton, increase rapidly since nutrients are in abundance. This "bloom" disappears when the nutrient surplus is used up. By that time though, it has probably prompted a similar pulse in the animal population (zooplankton) which depend on algae and other plants for food.

These creatures are also invisible to the naked eye. But a microscope offers anyone a window on their fantastic world. Put a drop or two of pond water under the lens and you'll see animal behaviour that's captivated scientists since Anton Van Leeuwenhoek first peered through his homemade instrument in 1674.

Most of us who live in our small little world think at various times that we have all the worries and that no one else is burdened with them. In my opinion the problems that we are usually worried about are small in comparison when one stops and realizes that in the world today in many countries a total of 85 percent of the people are going to bed on an empty stomach. This problem is out there and it's something that we just can't sweep under the door or hope to turn our heads and it will go away. Just put yourself in the position of many of these people and I am sure that you wouldn't want to trade places. Many of you will say that nothing can be done about the political games being played by governments in many of the countries that seem to be struck with poverty. Many Christian organizations such as World Vision and many others are making inroads and getting food into some of these countries. This all takes money and it will depend on how much money can be raised to what results will be accomplished. I sometimes think that a lot of these people who are always protesting about this and that would use this same amount of energy to help in getting food to under-nourished children in foreign lands. It's certainly something to think about.

Haliburton and area's third "Daffodil Day" was held last Friday to help support the Cancer Society's fund raising campaign. The day was a great success and Nancy Brink and the other people who organized the day are to be congratulated for their efforts. Thanks also should go to the 73 Haliburton and area business people who contributed funds to purchase the daffodils. It's a plain and simple case of people helping people and when you stop and think about it, isn't that what it's all about?

We were informed on Friday that when the ladies delivered the daffodils to the business places they made it quite clear that the stems had to be cut on an angle and placed in warm water. The business establishments who did not carry out these instructions found out later that the flowers did not bloom.

A few personal notes from Haliburton include Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bannon who returned home last Thursday after spending the winter months with their daughter and son-in-law in Los Angeles, California. The manager and staff of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in Haliburton were in Toronto on Thursday evening to view the operation of the data centre at Commerce Court. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Leighton have returned home after having spent the winter months in the sunny south. Mr. Bob Morrow was a visitor to Toronto one day last week.

The Zion United Church Choir at Carnarvon are presenting the Cantata "For This He Came" on Good Friday, April 20 at the Carnarvon United Church. The choir will also be putting on the Cantata at the Ingoldsby United Church on this same evening starting at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to these two churches to hear this Easter message.

Kim Emerson, chairman of the Haliburton Rotary Club's Easter Seal Campaign, reports that the campaign has reached 75% of its objective and he wishes to thank all those who have contributed to this most worthy cause. If you happen to be one of the many people who have been busy and haven't had time to send in your donation please do so today. Every dollar you give will help the club reach its objective of $2,800.

The National Hockey League playoffs are well underway but one of the teams that are not in the playoff picture this year are the Los Angeles Kings. If there was one happy note in what otherwise was a very dismal year for the Kings, it was the play of our own Bernie Nicholls. When the regular schedule ended there was Bernie right up on the top as the top point getter for the Los Angeles team.

We are happy to report that Carolyn Greenfield has returned home following an operation at the Toronto General Hospital. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

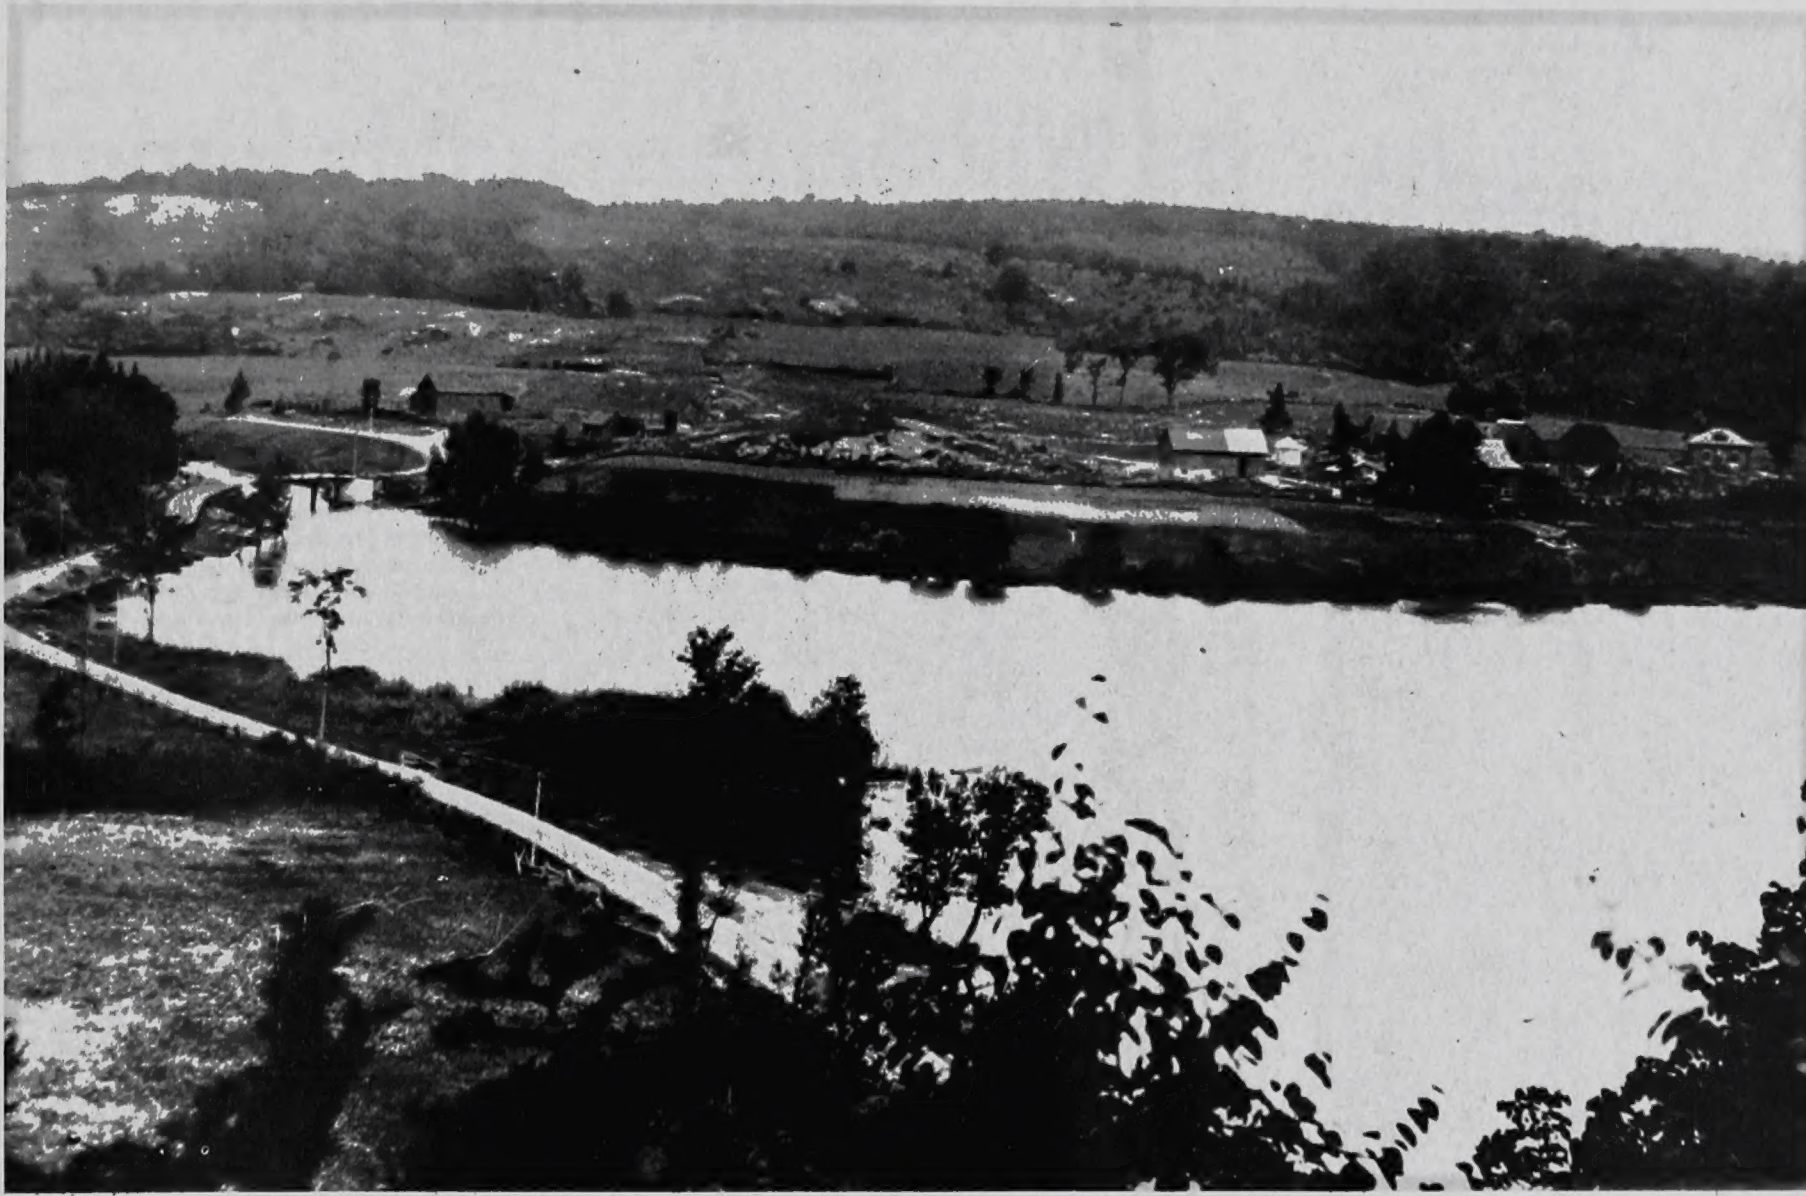

It may be a little early but there's no time like the present to announce that the Haliburton Kinsmen's Home and Vacation Show will be held at the arena in Haliburton on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 8 - 9 - 10.

The Rotary Club of Haliburton report that they are getting ready to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the club, which will take place in May. Marie Bjorn, the Rotary Club of Haliburton's exchange student, was the guest speaker at the Minden Rotary Club on Monday evening. Steak and Lobster night is all set for April 28 at Wig-A-Mog Inn. Many outside guests will be attending and a fun night is planned. At a recent meeting the club approved a donation of $500 to help Nora Good attend the Handicap Olympics in New York this summer.

According to a letter to the editor in the North Kawartha Times it appears that the Fenelon Falls council are taking the ice out of the arena while two of their minor hockey teams are still in the playoffs. If this ever happened in Haliburton it would be enough to really get the local citizens up in arms.

Pic of the Past

cheese factory was located at that time on the property where reeve Murray Fearrey now resides. According to Nila Reynolds' book "In Quest of Yesterday" among the first to take up land at Head Lake was the newly appointed Haliburton agent for the Immigration Company, Charles R. Stewart, who purchased a considerable tract of land including the site of the present high school. The history of the Walling family is an interesting one; Reuben Walling of Abbotsberswell, Devon, came to Toronto in 1860. Thirteen years later he brought his family as far north as he could by rail, in March travelling from Cobocok up the frozen lakes in an ox drawn sleigh, to the northwest side of Head Lake, Haliburton, where he took up a large tract of land. A son, Samuel helped clear the farm shown in this picture and build up the fine Holstein herd which has made Walling's Dairy famous. The business remained in the family for many years and until recently was owned and operated by Stephen and Lester Walling.

Naturalists

Consider how they eat, for example. A one-celled protozoan swims up to a filament of an algae of the genus spirogyra, clamps its "mouth" (a circular opening in its "skin") over one end of the filament, and starts consuming. The diner isn't concerned that each cell of the alga may be larger than itself; it just feeds away one cell at a time.

Sooner or later these invisible creatures end up in the belly of some larger animal such as a mussel, which filters them out of the water. And then we're back into a world where "big" organisms - fish, turtles, muskrats - predominate, with their more commonly understood behaviour patterns. But the food chain pyramid is pretty narrow at this level, there being only a few dozen such species around most ponds. So for a new view of spring in full bloom, explore the microscopic awakening of a pond.

From the Chamber

The Economy - A recent bulletin issued by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development states Canada's economy is heading into its best year since 1976, with the rate of expansion expected to be 5% in real terms during 1984 - Ontario with a real growth rate of 3%, will figure largely in this improved overall expansion.

The report states the growth will be fed by increased consumer spending a rebuilding of business inventories and a strong market for Canadian exports to the United States.

In its comments on the Canadian economy the O.E.C.D. predicts that recovery from the worst post war recession will continue during the coming months.

In the year ahead Canada and the United States are expected to lead the rest of the industrialized world, posting better growth rates than the European economies and Japan.

Ontario Land Use Planning Guidelines - A report has been published by the Ministry of Natural Resources outlining ideas on future development in Ontario of minerals, parks, forests, tourism and fishing. This report took 10 years of research and is a first in Canada.

The guidelines are detailed inventories of 42 of the Ministry's 47 districts, and covers natural resource information, as well as an outline of future proposal for their most efficient use.

Among recommendations contained in the guideline are creation of 155 provincial parks, including six Wilderness, 35 Natural Environment, 25 Waterways, 74 Natural Reserve, 12 Recreational and three Historical parks.

Regulations covering six wilderness parks already have been approved by the Ontario Cabinet.

The guidelines also take into account the economic significance of existing tourist operations and the potential for expansion.

Also clarified are Ministry policies on recovery of aggregates - sand and gravel - thus providing greater flexibility for future management. The guidelines will not apply on private land, still subject to municipal controls and the Planning Act.

Copies of the guideline are available from the Ministry of Government Services, Publications Services Section, 5th Floor, 880 Bay St., Toronto, M7A 1N8. Cost is $5 (payable to Treasurer of Ontario) for each subject district covered.

Printing - In the past the Chamber of Commerce office has offered a printing service to its members and the general public at a very low price. Because of the hours involved in providing this service and the state of our antiquated equipment, we have decided to discontinue the service. I think you will agree that the time and money spent administering this service can be better spent in tourism promotion.

Board meeting - Our next board meeting will take place on April 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lloyd Watson Centre at Wilberforce. Please plan to attend and bring a friend.

Winter accommodation guide - Spring has just arrived and already we are thinking about our winter accommodation book. In fact we are doing more than thinking, we have already set our deadlines. Prices will be discussed at our board

Queen's Park Report

By JOHN EAKINS, M.P.P. [Victoria-Haliburton]

Each week I sit down and prepare this Queen's Park Report. I try to give a general view of what is happening at the Legislature and to keep you informed of bills and resolutions before the House. It is easy to sit behind a desk, send out written material, and then say the people are being informed. However, the dialogue must be a two-way street; and therefore there must be an opportunity for groups, organizations and individuals to meet their Member and have input.

A meeting to do just that took place last week with members of the teaching profession representing the various affiliates of their association. I want this dialogue to be continued and expanded, for there is much for me to learn and know about their concerns and aspirations. The meeting was helpful to me, for while we have an official critic in the Legislature for Education, Colleges and Universities, I was able to learn and expand from talking to those 'close to home'.

I am impressed with the quality of our people engaged in the teaching profession. They work longer hours and assist in more projects than they are given credit for. But to do the job, and to accept their increasing responsibilities, they must be given the tools, and their work must be more clearly understood.

This leads me to say that those who serve in elective office in whatever capacity, and as individuals, all have an obligation to keep themselves and others well informed.

This means that as citizens we should attend meetings of council, school boards, and other boards and commissions elected or appointed. It has been my experience that few people bother to attend unless they have a problem or a petition to present. Citizens generally should attend and see how their tax dollar is spent, and not wait until election time to express concern.

In most jurisdictions, boards of education receive the largest share of the tax dollar. I wonder how many attend their regular meetings? They are open to you to attend and I hope you will be encouraged to do so. It is helpful for elected people to know of your interest. That is why I encourage everyone I meet to visit our Legislature and hopefully feel a little closer to understanding the decision making process.

And of course, like our teachers, I can take the opportunity to outline a Member's working day, so you will better appreciate that it is not a 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. working day with several months to loaf around.

My sincere appreciation to our teachers' representatives for showing the initiative. I look forward to further meetings, and also to meet with other professions, groups, organizations and individuals. Dialogue is a two way process, and I must do my part.

Report from Parliament

By Bill Scott M.P.

During the week of March 19, I joined the Progressive Conservative Task Force on Revenue Canada. I participated in the public hearings held in Burnaby, British Columbia, Cranbrook, British Columbia, Calgary, Alberta, and Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. My schedule consisted of attending day long hearings and then flying off to the next city in the evening with just enough time to prepare for the next day.

As Deputy Critic for National Revenue, I thought I had seen almost every conceivable type of problem taxpayers face in their attempt to comply with the Income Tax Act before I joined the Task Force. What I heard astounded me. Situations which I thought were unique to a particular constituent of mine are happening routinely across this country. Everywhere we went, we heard of small businessmen being forced into receivership by Revenue Canada. We heard of many, many cases of taxpayers who, through no fault of their own, are not able to pay their assessed taxes, but are still being harassed and threatened. In many cases, farmers have their income tax reassessed by auditors who know nothing about farming operations and thus do not understand that expectation of profit is viewed much differently by farmers than other businessmen.

One overwhelming thing came across in our tour. Canadians across this country fear Revenue Canada more than anything else. They feel intimidated and frightened in their dealings with local tax officers, sometimes hundreds of miles from their home. More than the replacement of a Deputy Minister is necessary to restore Canadians' faith in the Income Tax collection system.

The Task Force wound up its hearings in Hydro changes policy on pay for easements

Ontario Hydro has implemented changes to its policy on compensation paid for easements for wood pole power lines.

A number of items in the policy have been updated to reflect changes in land values and to improve compensation for inconveniences caused. These items include: a new median land value for farm properties used to calculate easement payments (increased from $2471 to $3200 per hectare); and a general increase in pole payments from $75 to $90.

The policy is designed to ensure that everyone directly affected by wood pole lines is dealt with openly and equitably. It takes into account land values, crop losses and any possible inconveniences resulting from the structures.

The low-voltage lines affected by the policy change are, in most cases, carried on single or twin wooden poles in areas directly served by Ontario Hydro.

Easement rights are acquired for wood pole lines on residential, commercial, industrial and cottage properties, as well as farm land. An easement allows Ontario Hydro limited rights of land use. It may build and operate a power line, enter the property from time to time to inspect, repair, replace, maintain or remove the line, and to do essential tree-cutting or trimming. Although not permitted to erect buildings on the easement area, owners retain ordinary use of the land along with the rest of their land rights.

Changes became effective April 2, 1984 and will be reviewed on a regular basis.

For further information contact the Minden area Hydro office.

Electrical Code stresses safety

Ontario Hydro has made a number of changes in the Electrical Safety Code to better protect customers and workers against potential fire and shock hazards. These changes became effective April 1, 1984.

The changes having an effect on the farming community.

No Wonder the Farmer Takes a Wife!

Are you a liberated woman? Do you want to enter a career field long associated with and attributed to the male species? Do I have a job for you! I've been learning first hand what the Canadian and American Farm Associations have been keeping under wraps for years. It's the wives who are the farmers!

I'm not talking about my few chickens and vegetable patch here. I mean SHE FARMS! She milks, feeds and cleans up after the dairy herd. She raises chicks, collects eggs, cleans coops, and butchers and dresses chickens. She does the same for turkeys, and at least helps with the butchering of pigs and beef cattle.

She grows a vegetable garden large enough to feed her family all winter. She can drive a tractor, bale hay, run a rotor-tiller -- you name it, she does it.

And when she gets through with all the farm chores, she gets to do all the "woman's work". Like churning butter, pickling, freezing and canning the garden she tilled, weeded, planted, weeded, and picked. Then there's the regular mundane chores like washing, ironing, cleaning, cooking, baking and so on. For fun she often makes bread, or quilts or clothes for her family. And, oh yea, she raises children.

It's not that her husband is lazy. The fact is, most farmers are compelled to work full time off the farm in order to survive. Consequently, it's up to the "little woman" to take over. He still has lots of chores to do before and after work. But without her, there would be no farm at all.

I'm learning to have a great deal of respect for these women. As a middle-aged ex-city girl who's taken on a relatively small chicken and vegetable farm; (the insurance people call us a hobby farm) I've discovered that on my very best day, I could never compete with these dynamos of energy. Although maybe I just started too late in life.

Some days I figure I've really worked hard. At least that's what my body tells me as two hundred muscles I never knew I had, go into full arrest. I mean, when I've shovelled out two chicken coops, hoed for two hours, planted four or five rows of vegetables, plus the cooking, dishes, and laundry, I feel I've put in a pretty good day. Not so! Of course, I should never chat with a real farming woman because she's done all that plus four or five other chores and has big plans for the evening. It can make me feel very inadequate.

Then they all try to encourage us to buy a heifer, or some goats, or pigs, or all of the above. So I can have milk, pork, and beef. It's so nice to have your own. They're right of course.

When we started out, we fully intended to raise goats and pigs also. I used to visualize myself making my own cheese and sausage. Now if I let myself think about taking on new animals, an aromatic vision of a mountain of assorted manures begins rising up before me. And guess who's doing the shovelling?

In other words, I have accepted my limitations. I am neither efficient nor inexhaustible. I shall be fully satisfied to be a mere "hobby farmer". Always in awe of those other vital tireless, wonderful women who manage both farm and home so well. Let's face it guys -- you couldn't do it without them.

Well readers, what a beautiful sunny morning, the weatherman is giving. It makes one feel that life is worth living.

As I write this letter we welcome Ina McGuire back from hospital, feeling much better we hope. Some of our residents are still affected by the flu, feeling kind of weak and awfully blue.

Service was held in the chapel Sunday night. Rev. Burgess took his message from first Timothy, Chapter 7 Verse 15. "This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptations, that Jesus Christ came into this world to save sinners."

Our administrator has gone on a two week holiday. He knows his 'children' will be really good when he is away. Monday down at fun and fitness Ada Shorter won the game we played, for all of us to witness.

Tuesday morning Rev. George Elliott of Minden Anglican Church conducted a very impressive service, in the chapel this lovely April day. Faithful Fred Ballard came with music to play.

They say the sap is running these bright sunny days and the syrup makers are sure making it pay.

Tuesday afternoon, playing the quiz game which is a lot of fun when the game had ended neither team had won.

Tuesday night, Daryl Crowe came along and entertained us royally with music and song. Congratulations Daryl, you made quite a sensation when you sang on CKLY Lindsay's radio station.

The movies this week were

The Heron named Bill, Fiddles and Wing, and It's a Hobby for Harvey.

The ladies working in the craft room say that live rabbits haven't been producing very well, so they are making Easter bunnies hoping they will.

We welcome Mrs. Shuyler back to us again looking quite fine. She has been in the hospital for quite some time.

Thursday afternoon the Haliburton United Church ladies came down to Hyland Crest and brought along a lovely lunch and were our special guests. They served it up so nicely with tea and soft drinks too. We thank you for coming, a really nice thing to do.

Congratulations to Helen Lee, who works here at Hyland Crest, who won one hundred dollars at Rotary Bingo. We're all so pleased to see that Grace Coburn our sing song leader here, received a citation for faithful service from the Red Cross.

Rod Behue, from the Co-bourg Kinsmen club, Larry Amyotte and Don Crowe came up here Thursday night, called out the Bingo numbers and put on a real good show.

Friday morning down at fun and fitness playing bucketball, Carrie Jones made the highest score of all.

What the Heart Cherishes
No vision and you perish,
No ideals and you're lost,
The heart must ever cherish,
Some faith at any cost.
Some dream, some hope to cling to,
Some rainbow in the sky,
Some melody to sing to,
Some service that is high.

Did you know?

Did you know -- that there is a telephone referral service that will help you deal with Ottawa?

If you have a problem with the federal government, (and who hasn't these days) there is a service in Ontario that could help you without costing you money for long distance calls to Ottawa. The Canada Service Bureau is offering a telephone referral service to make the federal government more accessible to people, regardless of where they live in Ontario and will connect you with the proper department, agency or ministry in Ottawa at no charge. If you live in the 807 or 705 area codes, call 1-800-461-1664. If you live anywhere else in Ontario, dial 1-800-268-7207.

This bureau would prefer to know a little bit about the problem to ensure the number they have is the correct one. The service is offered in both English and French and operates weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Please keep in mind that your Haliburton County Information Centre is here to help people of all ages by answering your questions regarding health, social, governmental and environmental subjects or by quickly referring you to the appropriate resource. We are located in the Drag River Municipal Building (across from Emmerson Lumber) in Haliburton. Drop in or give us a call at 457-2733. Our office is open Monday through Friday 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. And remember, you will never know the answer until you ask the question.

Senior games set

June is Senior Citizens' Month and what a better time to have the Ontario Senior Games in Haliburton. This year, the Haliburton County Drop-In Centre is organizing the Games and is strongly urging all seniors to become aware of them.

Ottawa on March 29, on the same day as the Deputy Minister was replaced. When asked, in the House of Commons, if he took some responsibility himself for the maladministration of his Department, the minister of revenue said he wants to continue to work with the officials of the Department.

As Chris Speyer, M.P. for Cambridge said in the House that day, "Mr. Speaker, Mr. MacDonald is being used as a sacrificial lamb. He is the one the Liberals have assigned to carry the can for the irresponsibility of the Minister".

Abortion: a complex, demanding issue

Editor's note:

The following is another in an occasional series of articles by Reverend John James of the Haliburton Pastoral Charge, United Church of Canada, in which he examines and comments on broad social issues relevant to every citizen, no matter what their religious background or affiliation. The article is adapted from one of Reverend James' sermons. Readers with points of view on this or any other matter of interest to the community, are invited to submit articles for this series, or comment in letters to the editor.

Abortion is never an easy question. It is one of the grey areas of Christian faith and Christian life. There are Christians who are strong pro-abortion supporters, Christians who are strong anti-abortion supporters and Christians who cover the range in between. It is possible to identify two basic pro positions and two basic anti positions. Dr. Robert Bater, a former principal of Queen's Theological College, has outlined the four positions: the traditional Roman Catholic approach, and the Conservative Protestant approach, both of which are anti abortion stands, a liberal Christian approach, and what he called a liberal humanist approach, which are both pro abortion positions.

Spokesmen for the liberal humanist approach include Dr. Henry Morgentaler, and Toronto columnist, June Callwood. The liberal humanist pro abortion position is usually called pro-choice by the media. Supporters of this position frequently argue that a fetus is merely a piece of tissue to which we have no moral obligation whatsoever. For example, British criminologist, Glanville Williams, said "abortion should be treated like a tonsillectomy - for it is only the removal of unwanted or harmful tissue." Abortion is as morally neutral as an operation for tonsils. Dr. Henry Morgentaler states that "what separates humans from other species, is the brain, the neo cortex. Until brain waves can be detected at five months, a fetus isn't a human being." That argument has been challenged by Dr. Bernard Nathanson, a former abortionist, who performed thousands of operations and then began to have reservations about what he was doing. In a debate with Dr. Morgentaler, Nathanson stated that with new medical technology, brain waves can be detected, not a five months, but at six weeks.

The Liberal Humanist position is also sometimes called pro-choice. On the wall of the Toronto office of the Canadian Abortion Rights Action League is a sign saying "When speaking to the media, remind them it's pro-choice, not pro-abortion. Pro-choice supporters say it's a woman's right to have an abortion if she wants. They believe there should be complete freedom of choice and freedom of decision.

I find the argument that the issue is choice, morally repugnant, and basically dishonest. Journalist Barbara Amiel said, "having an abortion is not quite the same thing as choosing, say, a green dress or a blue dress. There is a moral decision to make. There is more than choice involved." I have to agree. Where would you draw the line with pro-choice?

You could say, "I would never urge extermination of the Jews, but if you want to that's okay, I'm pro-choice." You could say, "I would never rape a woman but if other men want to, that's okay, I'm pro-choice." Where do you draw the line when making a statement like that? Underlying it is a flippant, casual attitude to life.

There is a second pro-abortion position, a much more honest one, held usually by Christians. This is the official position of the United Church of Canada, and is based on what is sometimes called situation ethics. Situation ethics recognizes that we live in an ambiguous world, in which choices are seldom between absolute right and absolute wrong. Sometimes we have to choose the lesser of two evils. A classic example of this is World War II. On one hand we have the Biblical command "You shall not kill". To kill a person is wrong. On the other hand, to let Hitler or Mussolini murder millions of Europeans, was also terribly wrong. So in the face of two evils, our nation, I believe, made a right decision in going to war - the most loving action in that situation was to go to war. That's the basic way of making ethical decisions behind the United Church report on the abortion question.

The United Church takes this official stand. A report adopted by the General Council states "We affirm the inherent value of human life, both as immature in the fetus and as expressed in the life of the mother or other related persons. The fetus is unique though immature form of life and as such has inherent value. Christians should witness to that value by stressing that abortion is always a moral issue and can only be accepted as the lesser of two evils and should be the most responsible alternative in each particular situation. Therefore, abortion is acceptable only in certain medical, social and economic situations."

The United Church is very clear that when dealing with the fetus we are dealing with human life. The church would disagree with Dr. Morgentaler's suggestion that life begins at five months. The church is not flippantly and casually pro-choice as many North Americans are. The report says clearly that "abortion is always a moral issue and can only be accepted as the lesser of two evils." For example, one case would be the result of a pregnancy following rape. Which is the more loving action - to let the woman bear the of cases, a therapeutic abortion is the best solution. In a perfect world, every conception would be greeted with joy by both parents living together in a stable and happy marriage. However, in 1981, we live far from this ideal...and I am old enough to remember the awful consequences of backstreet abortions. I try to treat my patients with sympathy and compassion and end up offering most of them a termination of their pregnancy. Those who look for simple, one-sentence, black and white rules in the abortion issue will always be frustrated. No such solution is possible. All we can do is see each patient individually and try, in faith, to arrive at the best possible solution for that particular patient, and in my case, hope that the Great Physician approves."

Now I understand the United Church position,

'Situation ethics' permits decisions on the lesser of two evils bitter fruit of that violent attack, or have an abortion?

Dr. Robert Bater believes that for full human life to exist, two things are needed. There must be physical life, a functioning heart, body and lungs, and there also must be human relationships. He quotes an American who asks the question "wouldn't it be a loving action to abort a fetus that would be severely deformed, defective, or disadvantaged? That is a case of situation ethics."

The situation ethics position is probably best represented in a May, 1981 letter to the Toronto Globe and Mail, by Richard Neale, a practising physician in Toronto, who is also a practising Christian. In part, this is what he wrote: "It is easy to follow the Christian argument which obviously dictates the sanctity of all life; however, the physician in me dictates that, in the majority and I respect it, particularly the statement that "abortion is always a moral issue." And I respect the position that we do live in a complex world and choices are not always clear cut. Unfortunately, the report goes on to say that "We believe (in the first 12 weeks) abortion should be a personal matter between a woman and her doctor." The report hopes that the individuals will grapple with the moral and religious aspects involved, but recognizes that some may not. That makes me uneasy because Dr. George Grant says that at least 95% of abortions in Canada involve healthy babies and healthy women, and something tells me that's far too high.

I remember being particularly angered a few months ago when several women who had had abortions were interviewed on television. One woman said she had her abortion because she had

Local artists display their talents

Barbara Peel's pottery

Show includes works by seven residents

If any doubts remain about the number and quality of artists living and working in Haliburton County, they should be dispelled by a show that opened last week in the waiting room area of the Ralls' End Gallery in Haliburton. Entitled 'Seven Haliburton County Artists', the show features paintings, pottery, weaving, leatherwork and jewellery representative of a burgeoning arts community in the area.

On display are works by Barbara Peel, Judy Chapman, Chuck O'Neil, Debbie Bates, Mary Wallace, Ellen James, and Michael and Susan Butz.

Painting, weaving, jewellery, pottery

Barbara Peel is well known for her pottery, but the works on display in the current show emphasize her interest in sculpting objects that are both practical, such as vases and jewellery boxes, as well as visually striking.

Judy Chapman is one of the most talented and productive of a number of local weavers, and her work is bought up eagerly by people who appreciate the uniqueness of her hand woven garments and accessories.

Chuck O'Neil works in water colours, and his impressionistic renderings of local landmarks, scenes and activities are sparking interest among art collectors throughout the area.

Debbie Bates works primarily with pencil and pen and ink, creating exquisitely detailed and striking images of animals and other objects in the Canadian landscape. A number of her works hang in local collections.

Mary Wallace is well known for her impressive batiks of local scenes, but she also works in water colours, and several of her most recent renderings of the Haliburton landscape are on display in the current show.

Ellen James focusses her talents on leather work, ranging from belts and hand bags and hand carved brief cases, to plump leather teddy bears.

Michael and Susan Butz have a studio in their home near Haliburton, where they create original jewellery pieces using silver and a range of precious and semi precious stones. Their work is sold widely throughout the province, and is represented at the Gallery by pendants, rings and ear ornaments.

All of the works on display in the current show are for sale, but visitors don't have to be in the market for art to enjoy the display, which continues all this month, along with works by Sheila Maki in the main gallery.

planned a trip to Tahiti and being pregnant would interfere with the trip. To me, that's a casual attitude. The more I study the question, the more I become convinced that there are already far too many abortions happening in Canada and it would be wrong to open up clinics when there are already enough hospitals to cover the demand. If anything, we should be weeding out those who are only treating this as a matter of convenience.

There is no clear Biblical statement on abortion. Jesus doesn't say a word about it. The word "abortion" itself is never found in the Bible. Thus it is a 'grey' area. However, there are some Biblical references to life in the womb and those references all make a similar point - Ecclesiastes 11:5 "As you do not know how the spirit comes to the bones in the womb of a woman with child, so you do not know the work of God who makes everything". Jeremiah 1:5 "Before I formed you in the womb I knew you." Gal. 1:15 "God set me apart before I was born", the Greek translation of that said "God set me apart from my mother's womb." Psalm 139 reads "You created my inmost being, you knit me together in my mother's womb. I praise you because I am fearful and wonderfully made, your works are wonderful...my frame was not hidden from you when I was made in the secret place. Your eyes saw my unformed body." The Biblical record is clear that God is aware of life in the womb.

The classic New Testament example is the story of Mary meeting Elizabeth and the scriptures record "The baby leaped in her womb." Abortion is not a modern problem that needs modern solutions. The first sermon dealing with abortion was not back in the 1960's, it was in the year 210 A.D., 1800 years ago. It was given by a church father named Tertullian. His sermon is the first recorded instance we have of someone using Psalm 139, and the story of Mary and Elizabeth, to argue against abortion. Tertullian said that the fetus had a spirit. It was not just a blob of tissue, it was flesh and blood. From the very beginning, the early Christian church took a stand against abortion and also against the very common practice of infanticide, killing children after they were born. For example, if you wanted a boy and you got a girl, it was common practice, in the Greek and Roman world, to let the child die of exposure. Another church father, named Athenagoras, in one sentence, classified a number of things under the 'murder' category, including Roman gladiator fights, animal fights, infanticide, and abortion. He listed them all in the same category. He said that early Christians would not attend gladiator fights or watch public executions. The early Christians had a view of life and a style of life that was in contrast to the Greeks and Romans around them. Modern Christians still need to live a life style that is in contrast to the society around us. We live by the sign of the cross, not by the slogan of convenience. We live as God commands, not as we choose.

Isn't our modern North American culture very similar to the Greek culture 2,000 years ago? We don't have gladiator contests anymore, but have you seen "Rocky III" or Clint Eastwood's "Dirty Harry"? Don't these movies come dangerously close to Roman gladiatorial contests? We do have wide scale abortion, as the Greeks and Romans did.

freedom we should have? Should we base it on Judeo-Christian ethic which says that life is a gift from God and is special and precious? I for one have very little respect for the position of the humanists in our land who argue abortion on demand. That's not a new idea. It's not a 20th century idea for a modern problem. It is an old Roman practice that the early Christians opposed and the modern Christians should still oppose.

At the same time, I respect the more honest pro-abortion position that the United Church of Canada has adopted, although at heart I disagree with it, because I fear what it may lead to. Personally, I have no problem with the 5% of Abortions not a matter of 'convenience'

On January 22, 1973 the U.S. Supreme Court made abortions legal. Do you know the roots of that ruling? Mr. Justice Blackman delivered the opinion of the court and first section of his opinion was about "Ancient Attitudes". He said, and I quote, "Greek and Roman law afforded little protection to the unborn. Ancient religion did not bar abortion." Mr. Blackman should have studied the records a little more carefully. If so, he would have said that SOME ancient religions did not bar abortion. But one did. The Jews, the people of the Old Testament, were against abortion. That Supreme Court Justice based his opinion only on the practice of the Greeks and Romans. Most people who read this did not realize the logical consequences of that thinking. It was the Greeks and Romans who practised, not only abortion, but far more often, infanticide. They killed the baby after it was born, when they no longer wanted it. That's a logical consequence. Of course, that was an American opinion, but many people in Canada have argued that we should have as much freedom in this country as the Americans do. Sometimes I wonder, though, what kind of abortions where a moral choice is made between two possible evils. In instances like rape, incest, or severe retardation to the fetus, or significant risk to the mother's health, I'm for freedom of choice. But I have strong reservations about the fact that 95% of abortions in Canada involve a healthy mother and a healthy baby - on that I have to stand with the early Christians and say "I'm pro-life."

It is one thing to be pro-life in words, but what about practice, what about actions? What if it came to taking in to our home someone who was pregnant and needed a place to stay? How many of us would be pro-life then? What if it came to financially supporting someone for a period of time? How many of us would be pro-life then?

One thing is certain. Abortion is an area where Christians have no stones to throw and only love to give. Some words from an old hymn are appropriate here: "For not with swords loud clashing, nor roll of stirring drums, but deeds of love and mercy the heavenly Kingdom comes."

THE HALIBURTON COUNTY ECHO AND MINDEN RECORDER

Kinmount Korner

By MILLIE MOSS

Sincere sympathy to all family and friends of Jean Callin, Cobocok, who died this past week following a valiant fight against cancer. Sympathy also at this time to family and friends of Ruth Bradimore, also of Cobocok, who died very suddenly this week.

I was sorry to hear Glenn Viney is a patient in Peterborough Civic Hospital. Marguerite Scarlett is back in hospital, Leon Wright is in Ross Memorial Hospital. Eileen Shephstone was having mishaps. Helen Jones is in Oshawa General, and Father Brooks and Archie Williamson, to name but a few of our people who need your prayers, are ill.

Kinmount United Church Flea Market and Bake Sale will be held at Kinmount Legion Hall, April 28 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. All proceeds to go to the Mission Service Fund.

Results of the Galway Wednesday night card parties are: ladies' high, Mitzi Alzner; ladies' low, Maxine Cross; men's high, Jim Nightingale; men's low, Harry Stuart and most lone hands, Frank Franzen.

Home Support Services to date have four volunteer drivers. Anyone requiring "meals on wheels" or "wheels to meals" must let us know at least two days in advance in order that we may make the necessary arrangements with both the Kinvale Restaurant and the drivers. In the case of "wheels to meals" we will have to restrict ourselves to 30 people as it is a matter of first come first served. Also this will be held every alternate Tuesday beginning May 8. If interested give Ken Hyams a call at 488-2032.

Kinmount Civic Action Committee are sponsoring a logo contest for Kinmount and are looking for a graphic illustration of the past or future of our town. The contest is open to everyone and any age. All entries must be in at Hockley's "Five to a Dollar" store, across the street from the post office, by the closing date, April 30. The lucky winner will be awarded a $50 prize. Here's your chance folks, to show off your artistic talents and it is hoped that many of you will enter. Good luck.

Congratulations to Lee Yewman who was the happy winner of $190 on the 58th number at the Kinmount Legion Bingo, Friday, April 6.

While we're into the congratulations, how about that young lady, Jodie-Mae Perry, nine year old granddaughter of Mary and Mike Hartin? Jodie-Mae took a silver for her dance routine in the gymnastics competition, took fifth place in the vault and a bronze for overall points in the competitions held at I.E. Weldon High School recently. Jodie-Mae lives in Lindsay and your Kinmount family and friends are proud of you.

A meeting of Avon ladies was held at the Haliburton Home Support Services Building on Friday, April 6. A number of issues at hand were discussed and I found out first hand, how busy that premises is. If you need help, want answers, anything at all, give these good people at the Home Support Services a call at 457-2941 or 457-2733. They are there to help you so help them help you.

I hope that rain last week brings the flowers along. It sure got rid of a lot of snow.

Our house has been a busy place recently. That severe windstorm we had about a month ago ripped some of the roofing back, about 10 feet, so needless to say there's been a lot of water coming in on us of late and we've had men in who are doing a terrific job of fixing our problems.

I was told last Friday of two rabid dogs over Peterborough way who had bitten other animals and a couple of people. When you're teaching your young ones not to trust strangers, keep in mind how most youngsters are naturally attracted to our furry friends and they should not be allowed to go up to any animal and freely pet it.

Just what is it we're doing wrong? After all my talking about robins coming back and flowers starting to grow I get up to more snow on Saturday morning.

If you would like to purchase tickets on a draw from the farmers' market give Bob Hollobon a call, and from the One Parent Family Association, call Bill D. Moss at 488-2353 or 454-8171. All the prizes are of a very practical nature.

This one sounds good: Tangy Fruitcake: ½ cup butter, ¼ cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon lemon rind, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, 1½ cup cake flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup milk, some confectioner's sugar, sliced and sweetened strawberries, heavy cream, whipped. Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add lemon rind and extract. Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk, beating with mixer at medium speed. Begin and end with dry ingredients. Pour batter into a greased and floured 6½ cup ring mold. Bake in 325°F. oven for 30 to 40 minutes. Cool on wire rack for 10 minutes. Loosen edges and invert. Sprinkle with confectioner's sugar. Fill centre with strawberries and top with whipped cream. Serves 10 to 12.

Know what these fools did on April 1? My sister Amy and her husband, Larry Coker, came down from their Utterson home; my sister Helen and her husband Alex Graham, my mom and brother Mary and John Pyke, all of Norland, Bill and I, along with Shelagh Graham and Riley Moss, all piled into cars and drove up to Furnace Falls for a cookout. There were no picnic tables out yet and still quite a bit of snow, some mud, water was running high and fast and though sunny, it was a bit chilly.

My Bill was the first one to say "let's go home". Right about her I must say we weren't the only ones to try for a "first day of the season". There was another couple there along with three small children and they were sitting right on the ground under a big tree. We came back to Kinmount, dragged out the picnic tables and chairs and not to be deterred, Alex got a fire going in his barbecue. Amy made up three big pizzas, mom brought her pies and pickles, Helen and I added up to the vittles and we had our picnic right on our own front lawn, snow or no snow. Granted we received some odd looks from passersby but we enjoyed every minute of it. The Norland members left first and when our Utterson family left, they had to come back and leave in the opposite direction as an accident involving a car and a pick up truck had the whole street blocked up what with tow truck, police car, etc. No injuries -- and how was your April Fool's Day?

Welcome home to Win and Bill Wilson who have spent most of last month in California, Mexico and Nevada. It's nice to have you back home folks.

At our church last Sunday, our minister, Father Brooks, was preaching about Mothering Sunday, and they carry on the old tradition in England. One of our English ladies, Betty Lonsdale, went home and later in the afternoon received a phone call wishing her a "happy mother's day" from her son Joe and his wife Terry, from their home in London, England. A number of local people met this family when they were here last year on holiday and will be pleased to hear they are expecting another addition to their family possibly on October 17.

Stay healthy and happy, read the Echo and remember "if you didn't begin the day with a smile, it's still not too late to start practising, for tomorrow".

Give me a call at 488-2353 and if a recording says my phone is no longer in service, it's a lie - hang up and try again.

Wilberforce News

By WINNIE SCHOFIELD

Have you noticed that the thick black smoke from the tall chimney of the Wilberforce Veneer Plant no longer blackens the skies? This has been a daily annoyance and a worry to those aware of the consequences of air pollution. The problem has been of some concern to the company. They finally discovered that a small adjustment to the boiler feeder system eliminated the smoke. So for clear skies once again give thanks to Garf Hughey and Udo Duschner.

The newly-formed Agricultural Society has attracted many members and the planning committee has a board of directors who are looking forward to, and preparing for, their first agricultural fair. This will be held during the Country Good Times in July. Residents will be encouraged to enter exhibits of flowers, vegetables, baked goods, preserves, quilts and handicrafts. In order to enter a $2 membership fee will be required. Also at the fair will be a showing of horses, goats, pigs, sheep, etc. On May 5 a dance will be held in the Memorial Centre to help with the funds needed by the committee.

Improvements are being made to the outside of the Tory Hill Community Centre. There is the addition of a porch, new siding and roof. A grant was received for the siding and the bronze steel roof is being donated by the South Algonquin Kinsmen Club.

The Kinsmen have promoted many projects in the Easter section of Haliburton County and have earned the appreciation of our communities. Monday, May 19 the Kinsmen will be holding their annual auction and are ready to pick up any donation of furniture, household goods, appliances, etc. Phone any member of the club for a pick up. All proceeds from the auction are turned back to the community.

The benefit evening held for the Jackson family on Saturday night at the Legion Hall was a great success with over 60 people present. Quite a number of well wishers were from Harcourt. One made made a unique contribution to the evening by arriving all bundled up in several layers of clothing. He proceeded to remove pieces of his wearing apparel, auctioning off each piece until he was down to a single suit. Even his shoes were donated to the cause. During the evening the ladies served a tasty lunch. Everyone enjoyed the music provided by local talent.

On April 21, at the Maple Syrup festival, the ladies of the auxiliary will be holding a bake sale. You won't want to miss their goodies.

Winners of the seniors card games on Tuesday evening were as follows: Euchre - ladies' first, Freda Boyce, 74; ladies' second, Inga Wassel, 68; most lone hands, Eva McDonald, 5; consolation, Ron Pearce, 46; gents' first, Donald Alguire, 78; gents' second, Ziggy, 77; most lone hands, Hilda Chynoweth, 5; consolation, Ben Farrow, 47. Bridge - first, Rose Rocchio, 4450; second, Marg Purdon, 3440; consolation, Marion Sims, 460.

A number of people from our community have been ill and in Ross Memorial Hospital. They are Edwin Grozelle, Ronald Chynoweth, Hazel Hoskin and Frank Johnston. We hope you folks are improved and home by the time this column is published.

Friends and relatives are grieving the death of loved ones this week. A lady who had suffered much, Jean Callan, died in hospital Tuesday morning. Wednesday evening, Ruth Bradimore, wife of Danny Bradamore, died at the young age of 39 years, very suddenly from a heart attack. Ruth was one of the first kidney transplant patients in Canada about fifteen years ago and was sort of a medical wonder. Then, early Friday morning, Mrs. Frank Woodcock died. To those who mourn we offer our sympathy.

O.P.P. officer Don Fitzpatrick is off duty with a sore knee, which he hurt playing hockey.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Valliers of Berrin Springs, Michigan visited Ruth Fralick and Clara Schell on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Peyton of Port Perry were visitors of Ruth and Clara last week also.

As I write, I have just received a call saying my aunt Maggie Cameron has just died in Ross Memorial Hospital at the good age of almost 88 years.

To Everette and family, our sympathy.

I enjoyed a trip with fellow workers to a big Electrolux meeting held at the Skyline Hotel on Airport Road in Toronto last Sunday afternoon.

The latest gas price war has ended and now it's back to the inflated rates. The local Shell Station set record sales one day last week but since some really stocked up business will be slower for a while.

Softball fever has hit the sports fans with registration taking place April 7 at the hall. Cobocok has a lot of real good ball players and they are all looking forward to a summer of fun and the chance to prove they are winners.

With lots of robins about, one gets the urge to rake the lawn, etc., but with the rain showers that will have to wait. One of these days, temperatures will be much warmer.

Bill and Anne Goode, Roger and Derek of Queensville and Walter Marles of Lindsay visited Mrs. Marles and the Rod Harrison family at Norland. Mrs. Roslyn Cameron and brother Carl Lake, left Tuesday evening for a two week holiday in Scotland. They are visiting their mother, Sheila Lake, in Buchie, Banffshire, Scotland and renewing friendships there.

Ron and Linda Nesbitt and family of St. Thomas were weekend visitors of Mrs. Frances Nesbitt, Ron's mother.

Several local horse fanciers attended the big horse sale at Listowel on Wednesday. Isobel and Ingram Wessell were among those who took some of their horses to sell there. Speaking of the Wessells, our sympathy to them in the death of Ingram's aunt who died this week. His Aunt Isobel lived near Glenarm.

Norland Natter

By KELLY GRAHAM
It looks like I've run out of ideas for an opening remark so I'll just get on with the news.

The local council has designated May 5 to 12 as Pitch-In Week. I hope everyone will put forth their best effort to help clean up our area.

My sympathy to the family and friends of Ruth Bradimore. Mrs. Bradimore, of Cobocok, died suddenly April 4.

The winner of the hockey pool last week was Vernon LeCraw. Congratulations Vernon.

Not too long ago I mentioned that our local reeve, David Graham would soon be speaking on CKLY Radio. Well, he will at 11:59 a.m. on Tuesday, April 17. If you wish to catch this speech make sure you tune in on time as it is only a one-minute update dealing with community events.

Now here's some news from Norland Public School. Friday, April 13 is a professional activity day meaning that the kids have the day off.

April 30 to May 4 is education week and during this time the principal at Norland P.S. is making a special effort to get all the kids involved in school activities.

The school attended a book fair at our community hall last April 6.

On April 17 the grade seven and eight class at the school will travel to the Academy Theatre in Lindsay to view the play "The Upper Canada Challenge".

The kindergarten to grade two class recently travelled to Roger Gostlin's sugar bush in Norland.

The grade seven and eight class raised $27.40 at their recent bake sale held on March 23.

There will be a home and school meeting at the school on Wednesday, April 18.

To help celebrate our bicentennial each student in the school is planting a tree, either at home or at the school.

And last but not least the school is now selling school t-shirts. The t-shirts are being sold completely wholesale at $5.50 for adults and $4.95 for youths. The shirts are 50 percent cotton and 50 percent polyester; they are royal blue with the school crest on the front. If you wish to place an order for one please contact the school.

Now from Cobocok Public School. The school recently participated in a read-a-thon for multiple sclerosis and raised almost $100. They were the third-highest contributor in the country although they are one of the smallest schools. I think all the students at Cobocok P.S. should be commended for their tremendous effort towards this most worthy cause.

Congratulations to Clint and Heather Hirstwood who were recently blessed with a baby daughter born on Saturday, March 17.

The euchre scores for April 5 are as follows: ladies' high, Janis Chynoweth; low, Dorothy Brown; men's high, Susie Lightfoot; men's low, Tony Kenneth; lone hands (tie) Michelle Angiers and Mike Puterbaugh.

Dorset News

By PHYLLIS BRISCOE

Aren't we the luckiest people in the world? There have been storms, sleet and heavy snow along the eastern coast areas and tornadoes further south, with a great number of people losing their homes and all their belongings. They really have our sympathy and we feel very grateful that we can bask in the wonderful sunshine although the wind has been biting. Between the wind and the sunshine the snow has disintegrated and most of the ground is bare except where there were piles where it was shovelled off roofs. It is so easy to forget the bitter cold and paralyzing snow storms we experienced during the winter when we have this spring weather. And the deer are still around. Last week I was driving to Huntsville and just as we were approaching Birkendale we saw a beautiful animal standing on the side of the road. I slowed to a stop and the deer crossed the road and leaped over the fence. This one was followed by another. They are so graceful, they seem to float in the air.

Recent birthdays include Stacey Kernohan, who was 9 on April 4, Jeanette Large, who celebrated on the 9th, and Bev Robinson on the 11th.

An accolade for our young lady hockey player, Sheana Shortreed, who was given the most valuable player award recently.

Irene and Jack Clayton were in North Bay to attend the christening of their new grandson, Carlo John Bevilacqua, Barb and Carlo's son. They were accompanied by their son John who was Godfather for his nephew. The service was conducted at St. Rita's church, North Bay.

The sympathy of the community is extended to John and Peggy Walker, on the death of John's mother, Mrs. Lillian Walker, who died at Huntsville Hospital on March 26 after a brief illness. The funeral service was held at Addison's Funeral Chapel.

Rev. Kim Wright officiating. Errors in spelling do occur occasionally in the best of news columns but I am sure that everyone knows that the world famous department store in London is "Harrod's", not "Herod's" as in King. For those who cringe at the sight of a misspelled word or grammatical error, I hope their aesthetic senses were not offended and may their mistakes in the use of the English language go unrebuked.

H.H. Put cut flowers in warm water rather than cold. Moisture is best absorbed by the stems at about 100 degrees. Flowers like cool heads but warm feet.

Evelyn Prescott of Carleton Place visited her sister, Dorothy Dewey, and her brother, Albert Cary and his wife, Pearl, last week. She is feeling somewhat improved since her recent heart surgery.

Vera Riel underwent gall bladder surgery last week in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough. We understand that she is recovering nicely and is expected home soon.

The April meeting of the Friendship Circle took place last Tuesday at the home of Gwen Taylor with nine ladies present. The afternoon was spent in friendly chatter and knitting. The hostess served a delicious lunch. Greetings were conveyed to Gwen who would celebrate her birthday the following day.

Hazel and Ken Bell spent a few days last week in Toronto with members of their families. Hazel's sister, Eleanor Bothe, returned with them for a visit.

Ileen and Ivan Hunter spent a few days last week in Toronto. Among family members visited was Ileen's mother, Mrs. Storey, who is quite smart despite her 92 years of age.

Cake decorating class is underway

By ALEX STEVENSON

Stanhope Township's Bicentennial celebration program got underway when the first of a number of events was initiated on April 5. Under the direction of councillor Ann Barker, assisted by Pat Bain, Mary Lawr, Anna Barry and Lee Anna Barker, a group of 27 participants 12 years of age and older, male and female, began receiving instruction in the art of cake decoration.

This class is free to participants, since the ladies are volunteering their time and talent and the use of some of their equipment, while other equipment needs have been provided by funding from the Ministry of Municipal Affairs plus municipal support via the Feasibility Study Committee.

The program will teach the students the fine points of cake decoration and will deal with the technique of icing, sugar molding, colour, flowers and lettering. Gingerbread castles will be dealt with as the course progresses.

The interest shown by the young people was a surprise to the organizers, who found much encouraging enthusiasm displayed by the students.

Classes are to be held every Thursday evening commencing at 7 p.m. and will be held at the home of Ann Barker. The course will last for five weeks, running from April 5 to May 3, then will resume again in September.

A display of the students' work will be a feature of Stanhope Day, July 28. Other events are being planned as part of the Bicentennial celebration and will be announced as arrangements are firmed up.

Community Justice Week in Ontario challenges you to care about victims

Our justice system has a fine tradition of protecting offenders. However, we must all recognize that victims have rights and needs too.

Victims and their families need help at the time of crisis. They need information and guidance on how to use the justice system. And, they need support and care to deal with the aftereffects of crime.

The Ontario government has undertaken several initiatives to help victims. But personal and community involvement is essential.

Line Fence Seminar Held

The construction and maintenance of line fences continues to be a concern for farmers generally in Ontario. As a result, a Line Fences Seminar was held in Lindsay last week, sponsored by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing, which is responsible for the administration of the Line Fences Act. This seminar was attended by a large number of municipal councillors, clerks and fence viewers from across Victoria County.

A major concern is the fair division of cost when upkeep is required, between the property owners on each side. In the past when livestock were common on every farm, the need for well-kept fences was uniform across a farming area, and all farmers recognized their responsibility. Today, there are an increasing number of farm properties on which livestock are not kept, with many of these properties being owned by non-farmers and some by absentee owners.

As a result, an increasing percentage of property owners are unwilling to participate in the maintenance of line fences. As fencing costs escalate, this adds to the concern.

The first Line Fences Act was enacted in 1834, with the position of fence viewers actually being created in 1793 by the first Provincial Parliament of Upper Canada. The present Act was passed in 1979 when the previous Act received extensive revisions. The Act establishes the principle that, if a landowner wants a line fence to mark the boundary, then that landowner is entitled to construct a fence on the bound-

Under the Act appeals can be heard by a judge of the Small Claims Court. Unfortunately, several decisions have recently been made in these courts which put the effectiveness of the Act open to question in the minds of many farmers. It is hoped that further revisions to the Act will be made by the Provincial Legislature in the near future which will clarify some of these problems.

One of the basic rules mentioned in the seminar which every livestock owner should be aware of is that it is a livestock owner's responsibility to see that all fences around a pasture field are adequate before turning any stock out on to that pasture. If an animal does get out and does damage to a neighbour's property, the livestock owner is responsible.

One discussion in the seminar on what forms an adequate fence was settled with the suggestion from pioneer days, that a fence should be 'horse high' and 'hog tight'.

4-H Quilting Project
"Scraps Can Be Beautiful" and "Recycling From The Scrapbag". These exhibits state much of the theme from the Victoria County 4-H project "Quilting", just drawing to a close. Friday, April 6, 1984, marked the end of the unit for members in the Burnt River, Bury's Green, East Emily, Kinmount, Kirkfield, North Emily, Omeme and District, Powles Corner, Reaboro, South Verulam I and South Verulam II Clubs. Club members, leaders, parents and friends gathered in the Conference and Board Rooms of the Ontario Provincial Building to view displays of pillows, quilts, tote bags and a variety of other projects made by the members. An informative program of skits and exhibits followed the open house session.

The highlight of the evening was the award presentation recognizing certain members their 4-H achievements.

Four members - Lesley Knox, Bury's Green, Christina Brelsford, Kinmount, Gidget Wallace, Kinmount and Kim Wallace, Kinmount received County Honour Pins and Certificates.

A Provincial Honour pin and certificate was presented to Karen Beggs, Bury's Green and Nicolette Van Oudenaren, South Verulam I.

The highest level of Achievement Advanced Honours was received by Bernice Mitchell of East Emily. Her silver pastry server and certificate will be special mementos of her 4-H experience.

As well as the members, three volunteer leaders received special recognition. Leadership Award Certificates were presented to Eileen Carew, Powles Corner and Beryl Connell, North Emily for five years of leadership and June Dettman, Kinmount, for ten years of leadership.

"Quilting" is one of the five Bicentennial projects being offered to Ontario 4-H members during 1984. A second Achievement Night for Quilts has been scheduled for Friday, April 13. The second Bicentennial project, "Computers" wraps up on Monday, April 30 while the Bicentennial "Horticulture" project has just begun. "Fitness Fare" and "Personal Finance" this fall will round out the special project list.

Ontario's 4-H program is moving ahead to make sure our youth are prepared for the future in keeping with a new 4-H slogan: "Together Today For A Terrific Tomorrow".

Propane conversion extended

Federal assistance has been extended to all propane-fuelled road vehicles.

Changes to the Propane Vehicle Program took effect on April 1, 1984. The most prominent change will allow owners of private noncommercial vehicles to claim the costs of eligible materials used in the propane fuel system, up to a total of $400.

Changes to Electrical Code announced

munity are listed in Section 75 of this code. Some of the more significant ones include:

- Installation of an equipotential grid (wire mesh) in dairy farm milking parlours to reduce stray voltage problems;
- New standards for all new primary, secondary service and transformer poles;
- An increase in the minimum height requirements for primary and secondary line poles;

• New specifications for the installation of portable standby generators.

For the convenience of farm customers and electrical contractors, Section 75 of the Electrical Safety Code is published in a separate book. The updated code also contains a number of changes to wiring requirements for year-round residences and cottages. Copies of Section 75, and of the complete code, can be purchased at Ontario Hydro's Minden area office.

Obituary:

Margery Phyllis Ferguson

Submitted

Margery Phyllis Ferguson died suddenly at her winter home in Toronto on Saturday, March 24, 1984. Her husband, Dewar Ferguson, predeceased her in 1973. Had this not happened, they would have been permanent residents of Haliburton. As it was, Marge spent every summer at their home in the Halls Lake area. They had purchased their house in 1958 on the banks of the Hawk River, which they renovated from a small log building to the beautiful home it is today, where the door has always been open for friends and neighbours to drop in for a cup of tea and a friendly chat. Many of her Toronto friends also became acquainted with Haliburton when they visited her on weekends or spent a vacation in summer.

Marge was born in England, and came to Canada as a young girl with her parents, her sister and brother, so she grew up in Canada and was in every respect a true Canadian. She identified herself with many popular causes. During the war she went to work at Massey Ferguson, and was one of the union builders which led to the formation of Local 439, UAW. She was among those who initiated the Housewives' movement for a million signatures to roll back prices. She was also a pioneer in building the Congress of Canadian Women, and was a member of the Voice of Women.

In the earlier years in Haliburton, Marge, her husband "Fergie", and William Watson, Sr., were instrumental in seeking out amateur artists in the area to form the Highlands of Haliburton Art Group. This group held an exhibition three successive summers in Zion United Church Hall in the village of Carnarvon. Later, when circumstances prevented them from carrying on, the treasury of the group was turned over to those in the town of Haliburton who were working to form what is now the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts. She has always attended their exhibition each summer, taking with her any friends who might be visiting at the time. Both she and her husband gave scholarships to be awarded each year to a student of Haliburton High School.

Margery Ferguson was a tireless worker for peace and against nuclear war. She was one of those who were successful in getting Metro Toronto Council to declare the city a nuclear weapons free zone.

Haliburton has lost a fine citizen with the passing of Margery Ferguson. She was a member of Club 35 at Halls Lake, and attended most of the social and cultural events in Stanhope Township. She was always ready to help those in trouble, and there are many Haliburton residents who found her a good friend in time of need.

She leaves her friend John Paul, her sister Beryl of Scarborough, and brother Leslie of Vancouver.

Senior games planned at local Drop-in Centre

All persons, 55 and over are welcome to participate. The games include sports and activities that are enjoyed by senior citizens. Some of the "official games" are bridge, carpet bowling, lawn bowling, euchre, walking and shuffleboard.

The Drop-In Centre is looking for both participants and volunteers to take part in the Senior Games 1984. If you would like more information, please contact Anna Nichol at 457-2171 or visit the Drop-In Centre at the Haliburton County Home Support Building opposite Emerson Lumber.

Just a reminder - when you are taking a walk during these sunny days, please "drop-in". The Drop-In Centre is open from Monday to Friday. Walking is not only an excellent form of exercise but it gets us out of the house. Walking with a friend also makes the distance seem shorter and livelier.

Why do young children bite? Agricultural Report

By Kimberley J. Roddick,
Infant Development
Consultant

It is a question most parents ask, since most children bite at some stage. Biting is common among one and two year olds who are not yet able to communicate effectively.

Dr. Patrick McGrath of the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario in Ottawa cites three common reasons for biting:

- The child has an aggressive temperament;
 - The child has observed other children getting their way by shoving or biting;
 - The child is particularly frustrated by circumstances.
- Often the child is unable to effectively communicate his feelings or needs with language, which increases his frustration.

Biting may be the toddler's means for attracting attention. Biterers are most likely to bite people who won't fight back, including adults.

the drastic advice once given to parents of biters. Parents are mature people and biting is an immature and undesirable act. You are the child's model and when you bite, you imply biting is socially acceptable.

Show your child clearly that you don't like his behaviour and won't let it continue. The best approach is a combination of prevention and careful watching. When you child bites, remove him from the situation, telling him firmly that you don't like that behaviour and if possible, leave him alone for five or ten minutes. Your aim is to show your child that although biting may attract attention, there are no rewards for it. The rest period is also beneficial as toddlers are most likely to bite when they are tired and cranky.

You don't do a child any good by letting him get away with biting, but you don't bite him back. Experts reject

Try to prevent frustrating situations from occurring. Offer you support and help him express verbally why he is getting angry. Show him how to share toys and play with other children.

Watch your child when he is playing with large groups of children. Don't let them get to their frustration point, but divert their attention until he reaches an age where he can more appropriately deal with his peers.

Biting is hard on all parents involved; they feel guilty and angry. But it is important to minimize a biting incident so that other children aren't too alarmed or learn that it is a way to attract attention.

First aid for bites is simple. There is little danger of infection unless the victim's skin is broken; then thoroughly clean the area with a disinfectant and call your physician for advice. As the child gradually learns to effectively communicate his feelings with language, the biting behaviour decreases.

Biting in the child over 4 years with good verbal skills is cause for concern and professional guidance should be obtained.

The only prerequisites for Junior Agriculturalists are energy, enthusiasm and an

other jobs around the farm. Most participants will have experience working on a farm or doing physical labour. Farmers pay $90 a day for an Agricrew and transportation is looked after by the crew foreperson.

A SMALL TRIBUTE TO THE STANHOPE VOLUNTEER FIREFIGHTERS: Some people are easily forgotten in our daily lives. I am a short time resident of Halls Lake (about a year). On different occasions I have had the honour of meeting some of our volunteer firefighters. I wish to comment on the response to an alarm on April 2/84, 2:30 a.m. The fire unit was on the scene in approximately 7 to 10 minutes, and a total of 16 men responded. Well gentlemen, my hat is off to you for a job well done as I know sometimes it takes longer in the city.

32. in memoriam

DAVIES, Bill - In lovely memory of a dear brother and uncle, Bill, who passed away suddenly on April 12, 1978.

No farewells were spoken. No time to say good-byes. You were gone before we knew it. And only God knows why. It's lonely here without you. We miss you more each day. For life is not the same to us. Since you were called away To your resting place we visit. Place flowers there with care. But no one knows our heart ache. When we turn and leave you there. Lovingly remembered by sister Barbara and brother-in-law Roy, neices and nephews Debbie, Sheldon, Cheryl, Maxine, Tim, Chris, and Eric. 32-P-11

DAVIES, Bill - In lovely memory of a dear son and brother Bill who passed away suddenly on April 12, 1978. Fondly loved and deeply mourned. Heart of my heart, I miss you so. Often, my darling, my tears will flow. Dimming your picture before my eyes. But never the one in my heart that lies. The stars seem dim as I whisper low: "My own darling boy, I miss you so." Lovingly remembered by Mother and brothers Ron and Richard. 32-P-11

A Pinch of Sand

By H. JEAN BROWN

The coastal area with its many swamps and bayous lies west of New Orleans. This is Cajun country. That part of Louisiana that attracted the Acadians who had been so preemptorily ousted from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick by the English after Montcalm's defeat so many years ago. The Cajuns (Acadians) have retained their French language, although it is gradually disappearing. Their way with food remains delectable. They have adopted the local foods to use and at the same time absorbed overt ones of the preceding Spanish with more than a hint of the Mexican influence.

Red Beans and Rice

1 lb. red kidney beans
 ¾ cup chopped onion
 ¾ cup diced green pepper
 2 tsp. paprika
 ½ tsp. oregano
 1 lb. smoked sausage cut in pieces

Add to beans along with bay leaf, salt, paprika, thyme, cayenne and oregano (use less cayenne if desired). Cook 1 hr. uncovered, add water if necessary. Bake sausage 20 mins. 350 deg. add to beans. Cook beans additional 30 mins., stirring now and then. Remove bay leaf, stir in chopped parsley. Serve over oven rice. Serves 6.

Wild Geese

I, sleepless lie
 And from the sky
 I hear the wild and haunting cry
 Of wild geese as they northward fly

On beating wings.

Though we are well
 In winter's spell.
 These harbingers of hope foretell
 The budding green, the flower bell
 And birds that sing.

With hope at last
 For winter past,
 As flying high and fading fast
 The ancient promises they cast.

Returning spring.

Haliburton has Horticultural Society

By HAZEL ELLIOTT

Haliburton now has an active, official Horticultural Society with membership in the Ontario Horticultural Association.

Attendance at a recent organizational meeting was encouraging, as was the enthusiasm of the group, which will be holding regular monthly meetings at the River Building's Drop-in Centre.

Election of a slate of officers took place, with many of those who worked hard for the Horticultural Group in 1983, on the new executive. Several new names were added to complete the slate which includes 10 directors, five of whom are elected for one year and five for a two year term.

The secretary of O.H.A., who was to present a charter and speak on future plans of the provincial organization, was ill at the last minute and unable to come from Guelph. He will be the speaker for another 1984 meeting.

Keep the third Thursday evening of each month open for Horticultural Society meetings.

On May 17 at 7:30 p.m. Sir Sandford Fleming College has scheduled a presentation on "Landscaping". Their programs require a $5 fee, but those who attended the one on "pruning" in Minden in March felt it was worth the price.

April's meeting will be for executive, and advanced one week to April 12 because the president, Sheila Popple, is leaving for a holiday in Israel on April 13. The executive welcomes suggestions from the membership and interested town's folk for flowers in flower beds and pots. The plan for OHA's bicentennial bed may need to be scaled down for Haliburton. If you would like the group to use one specific old-fashioned flower as 1984's theme, phone Sheila Popple at 457-1150 or Madge Thompson at 457-2705. Plants will soon be ordered.

Terry Hartwick was named to head up a telephone committee, and Paulette Blake is convener for the display booth the Society has been asked to provide at the Festival of the Arts exhibition at the Senior Elementary School in July.

Membership fees are set at $2 each, by the OHA, and a drive for new members and donations, as well as persons to help with organizing the planting, and planting flowers, will soon be made. Come and help. Enjoy the exercise and the fellowship and share your expertise, so many can enjoy the fruits of your labours. Also suggestions for future topics at meetings are enlisted. Another need - men!

Six members of Minden's

Horticultural Society were present at the March 22 meeting. Their greetings, good wishes and advice were much appreciated.

The Library Board is presenting "Ontario Wildflowers" at Minden council chambers on May 1, to which Haliburton members are invited.

New flower beds have been requested, as well as continuing all the existing ones - one at the Drag River Building, and Grootendorst Roses at the Legion.

Help meet the challenge to make Haliburton "the prettiest town in Canada".

THE MARCH IS ON!

Many physically disabled men and women need your help. Please give generously.

Ministry of Transportation and Communications

The Government of Canada recognizes the fact that all Canadians must work together in partnership if Canada is to grow and prosper. This is particularly important now, at a time when the economy is recovering and new opportunities are presenting themselves.

Budget 84 is designed to allow us to capitalize on this climate and to provide the economic opportunity and security all Canadians seek.

A Fair Tax System

Taxpayers' rights are being strengthened, particularly with regard to assessments, penalties and interest charges. And, quarterly payments are being eliminated for some 550,000 individual Canadians.

Greater Pension Security

Women, senior citizens and farmers in particular, will benefit from increased pension security. New pension legislation will allow all Canadians better opportunities to save for their retirement.

Farm Sale - Tax Savings

In order to encourage the continuation of family farms, new legislation will be introduced that will help farmers to provide for their retirement adequately.

The Mortgage Rate Protection Program

This program will be introduced to enable homebuyers and homeowners to buy protection against extraordinary increases in mortgage rates.

$180 Million Reduction in Federal Taxes for Small Business

The net result of simplification of small business tax laws, as well as new initiatives and provisions for growing small businesses, will mean a tax saving for small and medium sized businesses of some $150 million.

Profit Participation

Employee Profit Participation Plans will assist Canadian workers and managers to build a more productive and competitive economy. The budget proposes to encourage gain sharing with a special tax credit that would be shared between employers and employees.

These are just a few of the important provisions of Budget 84 that benefit us all.

The Government of Canada needs your participation to help build for the future.

Get involved.
